

The Grinnell Herald

RAY AND FRISBIE.
PUBLISHERS.

Official Paper of Poweshiek County

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice of Grinnell, Iowa.

TUESDAY, JUNE 27, 1911.

Harlan P.

OBITUARY.

Emma Perry Hamlin Proctor.

Gone, all gone are the founders of Grinnell. Two only of the children of J. B. Grinnell survive, one of Dr. Holyoke's, and now only one of Homer Hamlin's, George H. Hamlin, whose twin sister, Emma Perry Hamlin Proctor died on the 14th inst. at San Rafael, Calif.

She had lived for three years on the Pacific coast with apparent benefit to her health in her new home which was taking on forms of beauty as she directed and as homes in California can among its perennial flowers. Her life seemed to bring back to her the joyousness of her earlier years.

A few months since her heart's action became feeble and caused clots or the brain. On one occasion life seemed finished but remedies quickly administered restored the pulse for a time, but her mind wandered except for brief intervals until life went out.

After brief services at the home the remains were taken to the church where the funeral services, conducted by her pastor were held. At her request the remains were taken to San Francisco and cremated. It was her wish that the ashes be sent to Grinnell for burial beside those of her daughter, Edna.

Grinnell has always had a peculiar interest in its four founders and their families. Emma Hamlin Proctor lived among us about fifty years—generally in delicate health but always interested in the good and the best, active in benevolent and religious service as health would permit, giving and receiving the affection which gladdens life at home and in the community.

Mr. Harlan P. Proctor, her husband, enjoyed married life with her during thirty-three years of mutual love and helpfulness. He with their four children, remains to mourn her loss.

June, 1911.

OBITUARY.

Emma Perry Hamlin Proctor.

Gone, all gone are the founders of Grinnell. Two only of the children of J. B. Grinnell survive, one of Dr. Holyoke's, and now only one of Homer Hamlin's, George H. Hamlin, whose twin sister, Emma Perry Hamlin Proctor died on the 14th inst. at San Rafael, Calif.

She had lived for three years on the Pacific coast with apparent benefit to her health in her new home which was taking on forms of beauty as she directed and as homes in California can among its perennial flowers. Her life seemed to bring back to her the joyousness of her earlier years.

A few months since her heart's action became feeble and caused clots of the brain. On one occasion life seemed finished but remedies quickly administered restored the pulse for a time, but her mind wandered except for brief intervals until life went out.

After brief services at the home the remains were taken to the church where the funeral services, conducted by her pastor were held. At her request the remains were taken to San Francisco and cremated. It was her wish that the ashes be sent to Grinnell for burial beside those of her daughter, Edna.

Grinnell has always had a peculiar interest in its four founders and their families. Emma Hamlin Proctor lived among us about fifty years—generally in delicate health but always interested in the good and the best, active in benevolent and religious service as health would permit, giving and receiving the affection which gladdens life at home and in the community.

Mr. Harlan P. Proctor, her husband, enjoyed married life with her during thirty-three years of mutual love and helpfulness. He with their four children, remains to mourn her loss.