INTRODUCTION

We are proud to present this, the 1972 edition of the Grinnell City Directory. We have included in our canvass area: Grinnell and the surrounding rural area which we have been advised is the pertinent service and market region for this area.

Every effort has been expended in making this volume as complete as humanly possible. The information was gathered by an actual house to house canvass and compiled in such a way as to insure maximum accuracy. The time between final check of information and delivery has been minimized by the fastest "in house" production capability in the industry.

It has always been our policy to provide accurate and comprehensive directory service to those communities that desire the "finest". We realize however that some errors and omissions are inevitable and earnestly request that these be brought to our attention. These errors and omissions will be corrected in the next edition of the directory. It is only through the interest of the subscribers and users of the directory that each new edition can surpass the last.

In the public interest the use of this directory for any other purpose than as a reference volume or reproduction of any part of this directory is expressly prohibited without written permission from the publisher.

We are proud of our membership in the Association of North American Directory Publishers. The members of this association are constantly striving to improve the products offered to the communities they serve. It is through the associations attitude of mutual sharing that many of the industries advancements have been made.

HISTORY

At noon on March 13, 1854, Josiah B. Grinnell and three friends drove up to the tavern at Lattimore's Grove (Westfield) and ordered dinner. After the meal they set out to find the red flag which marked the site for a town as suggested by a young engineer, Leonard Bacon, who was surveying for the proposed railroad. These men had come to Iowa in search of a site for a colony project whose members would have similar views on education, religion, slavery and temperance.

Four miles away on the summit of the divide between the Iowa and the Skunk Rivers they found the large flag pole near the spot where the Rock Island freight depot was built. Here Mr. Grinnell and three other men, Mr. Homer Hamlin, H. M. Hamilton and Dr. Thomas Holyoke, slept out one night and pre-empted four quarter-sections of land. The northwest quarter-section was platted and laid out in town lots after Mr. Grinnell had reserved one block for a city park, another on the west side for his friend, Loyal C. Phelps, and a third one on the east side for himself. The remaining lots were sold, and the receipts added to the Literary Fund which later made possible the procuring of Iowa College. It was this college which was founded in 1846 in Davenport by eleven theological students who had come into Iowa territory "each to found a church and altogether a college," was moved to Grinnell in 1859, and was merged with Mr. Grinnell's projected "Grinnell University", retaining the name of Iowa College until changed to Grinnell College in 1909.

John Brown received a cordial welcome from anti-slavery residents of Grinnell (which was a station of the Underground Railroad). Mr. Brown and his party of fugitive slaves with their covered wagons and his arsenal of weapons used in his guerrilla fighting in Kansas were helped on their way to Canada. In 1856 a post office was established. The first train arrived in Grinnell in 1863. On January 26, 1865, a petition with 75 signatures was sent to the court in Montezuma requesting incorporation of the town of Grinnell. This petition was granted on July 21, 1865, and Samuel Cooper was elected the first mayor of a town whose early settlers came from Ohio and New England.

By 1880 Grinnell had attained a population of 2,000 and was reorganized as a city of the first class. Historians of that year speak of the marvelous changes in only 26 years: the large and beautiful homes, the tall and branching shade trees (where there had been none), the substantial business blocks, the great railroad corporations, the churches of wood and stone, Iowa College, the business enterprises and wealth, and the intelligence and culture of the citizens. Springing from the treeless, trackless prairie Grinnell had become the pride and joy, not only of the immediate town, but of the state at large.

Disaster struck twice within the next decade. After a "cyclone" on June 17, 1882, Grinnellians buried their nearly 100 dead, cleared away the debris, rebuilt their college and a better town. A fire on June 12, 1889, swept away 54 businesses in the block near Commercial and Broad Streets, but 34 were soon housed in new locations.

In early days the nationally famous "Spaulding buggy" and the smaller plant of the rival "Laros" buggy furnished employment for hundreds of residents. The Spaulding automobile did not survive competition, but the Morrison-Ricker Glove Factory flourished. While the economic climate has always been healthy with sound industrial organizations, world-famous Grinnell College has contributed much in cultural wealth. A private co-educational, liberal arts college with an average enrollment of 1,180 from 48 states, the District of Columbia, the Panama Canal Zone, and 18 foreign countries, it has been ranked among the top ten colleges in the U.S. in more than one study of recent years.

Histories and exhibits of Grinnell's early days, such as J. B. Grinnell's "unique desk" and "the engine" from the plane built by Billy Robinson, Grinnell's pioneer aviator, have been preserved by the Grinnell Historical Museum Society. After years of homeless existence, a generous gift from Miss Rubie Burton in memory of her father, former Postmaster A. M. Burton, added to other gifts, permitted acquisition of the historic J. H. McMurray residence at 1125 Broad Street in 1965 for housing and display.
